

The strength of the anti-trust laws and the regulations on media ownership are what enforces our Constitutional right to a free press. Your decisions should be based on that constitutional imperative, not only out of a sense of patriotism, but in recognition of your decision with respect to how it stands up over time. A democracy has a revolving government, which, over time, keeps our society on track with our core principles, one of which is a free press. I implore you to not only retain the current regulatory principle of limiting media ownership, but to also recommit yourselves to the American philosophy of defending our establishment of a free press, with all of the bumps in the road that it may produce. Retain and re-inforce governmental regulations of media ownership and the 'public domain' philosophy of overseeing the broadcast airwaves, wires, and other such mediums.

Any American will agree that this is a time when the media is changing. Please defend our philosophy of letting our diversity of opinions sort out the issues and pressures of life without offending our constitutional rights. I am confident that you will never regret such a position. Defender's of the Constitution, the Law of the Land, are always historically significant, both in this life and beyond. Thank you for your time.
